Analyses of University-Industry (UI) Collaborative Research:
The Case of Thailand National Research Universities (NRUs)

Napat Siripitakchai

Department of Innovation, Graduate School of Innovation Management, Tokyo Institute of Technology

CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION

- 1.1 Previous studies on UIL
- 1.1.1 Drivers of collaborations and types of firms and universities engaging in the UILs
- 1.1.2 Collaboration mechanisms
- 1.2 Joint research and other UIL modes in developed countries
- 1.3 UIL in developing countries
- 1.4 Thai UILs
- 1.5 Objectives of Research and Potential Contributions
- 1.6 Structure of the Thesis

CHAPTER 2: THEORETICAL BACKGROUND AND CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK

- 2.1 University's Third Mission of Economic Development
- 2.2 Firm's Open Science Strategy
- 2.3 Knowledge Transfer activities
- 2.4 Conceptual Framework

CHAPTER 3: THAILAND'S UNIVERSITY-INDUSTRY LINKAGES (UILs) AND RELATED POLICIES

- 3.1 National Science and Technology (S&T) related policies
- 3.2 Technology transfer offices (TTOs) in Thai universities
- 3.3 Interaction Modes of Thai UILs
- 3.4 Thai Higher Education System Reform
- 3.4.1 The implementation of institutional-autonomy in Thailand
- 3.4.2 National Research University (NRU) project
- 3.5 Summary

CHAPTER 4: THAILAND'S COMPETITIVE INDUSTRY CLUSTERS AND THEIR TECHNOLOGICAL CAPABILITIES

- 4.1 Technological capabilities, absorptive capacity and core competencies
- 4.2 Value chain governance and technological upgrading
- 4.3 Thailand Industry Clusters
- 4.4 Methodology and Data
- 4.5 Findings
- 4.5.1 The case of Thai shrimp cluster
- 4.5.1.1 The shrimp global value chain
- 4.5.1.2 Shrimp Global Value Chain (GVC) governance and upgrading of the Thai shrimp cluster
- 4.5.1.3 R&D activities and UILs in the shrimp cluster
- 4.5.2 The case of Thai HDD cluster
- 4.5.2.1 Thailand' position in the HDD global Value Chain
- 4.5.2.2 HDD global value chain governance and upgrading of the Thai HDD cluster
- 4.5.2.3 R&D activities and UILs in the HDD cluster
- 4.6 Thai cluster review
- 4.7 Limitations
- 4.8 Summary

CHAPTER 5: ACADEMIC RESEARCH PERFORMANCE OF THE NATIONAL RESEARCH UNIVERSITIES (NRUS)

- 5.1 Academic research performance and core research strength

- 5.2 Methodology and data
  - 5.2.1 Benchmarking of research performances
    - 5.2.1.1 Specialization index (SI)
    - 5.2.1.2 Relative impact (RI)
  - 5.2.2 Identifying core research strengths of high performing NRUs
    - 5.2.2.1 Phase I: Identifying the core papers
    - 5.2.2.2 Phase II: Evaluating similarities of cited references
    - 5.2.2.3 Phase III: Identifying the university's core research strengths
- 5.3 Findings
  - 5.3.1 Core research strengths in Natural Sciences during 2009-2013
  - 5.3.2 Core research strengths in Engineering & Technology during 2009-2013
- 5.4 Research performance and the NRU project
- 5.5 Limitations
- 5.6 Summary

CHAPTER 6: ANTECEDENTS AND CONSEQUENCES OF THE NRUs' COLLABORATIVE RESEARCH

- 6.1 Patterns of Thai collaborative research
- 6.2 Indicators of University-Industry (UI) collaborative research
- 6.3 Methodology and data
- 6.4 Findings
  - 6.4.1 Major research fields of NRUs' UI-Pub: natural science or engineering technology
  - 6.4.2 Characteristics of the co-publishing or co-patenting firms
  - 6.4.3 Intensity of collaboration by the NRU and industry
  - 6.4.4 NRU's characteristics and the patterns of collaborative research
  - 6.4.5 Relationship between NRUs' research performance and collaborative research
- 6.5 Limitations
- 6.6 Summary

CHAPTER 7: ACADEMIC RESEARCHERS' PERSPECTIVES TOWARDS COLLABORATIVE RESEARCH

- 7.1 Analytical Framework: determinants of decision to engage in collaborative research and the researcher characteristics
  - 7.1.1 Relatedness between research agendas and collaborative research
  - 7.1.2 Novelty of the research topics
  - 7.1.3 Possibility of knowledge dissemination
  - 7.1.4 Types of funding
  - 7.1.5 Firm size
  - 7.1.6 The attributes of individual university researchers
    - 7.1.6.1 Types of research agendas
    - 7.1.6.2 Collaboration experience
- 7.2 Methodology and data
- 7.3 Findings
  - 7.3.1 Attributes of the survey respondents
  - 7.3.2 Perceived benefits of engaging in joint research
  - 7.3.3 Ranking of determinants for decision to engage
    - 7.3.3.1 Relatedness of research interest versus accumulation of the knowledge stock
    - 7.3.3.2 Novelty and its relationship with dissemination of knowledge
    - 7.3.3.3 Ex-ante negotiations of IP assets mitigating the barriers to engage in joint R&D
    - 7.3.3.4 Type of funding and the publication freedom
    - 7.3.3.5 Large firms and capability to exploit external knowledge
- 7.4 Summary

CHAPTER 8: A COMPARATIVE STUDY: COLLABORATIVE RESEARCH IN THAI SHRIMP AND HDD INDUSTRIES

8.1 UI collaborative research in Thai shrimp cluster

8.2 UI collaborative research in Thai HDD cluster

8.3 Lessons learnt from both clusters

CHAPTER 9: CONCLUSIONS AND IMPLICATIONS

9.1 Contribution of the thesis

9.1.1 Research driven UI collaborative research vs. technology transfer UI collaborative research

9.1.2 Universities' characteristics, research performance, and patterns of collaborative research

9.1.3 Impact of S&T policies and education reform on UI collaborative research

9.2 Management implications and concerns

9.2.1 Implications for universities

9.2.2 Implications for industry side

9.2.3 Implications for policymakers

9.2.4 Implications for all stakeholders

9.3 Future research directions
